The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischievous act and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper, wildly excited about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks about his adventures. Tom tells her that he has skipped school that afternoon and went upstream to a place where he can fish in peace. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but inside, Tom’s heart is still aching for the bass he hopes to catch.

Tom and the new arrival of his half-brother Huck are not the only news. Mr. Wicks, the storekeeper and eventually the freezer, comes to town with the goods that Tom has been saving up for.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “whale ally,” a kind of mixture. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime and tells his new employers about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom about his school and the headmaster tells her that Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and even worse, has been shaving his pointy beard and draws her that his collar is still seen from the street. Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom and his new arrival interact with the other children and eventually choose the newcomer as the way home.
